MEMORIAL INSCRIPTIONS
OF THE
PARISH CHURCH OF
ST. MARY THE VIRGIN
CRICH
DERBYSHIRE

1987

ST. MARY, CRICH, DERBYSHIRE

GENERAL INFORMATION

No church is mentioned in Crich at Domesday (1086). The nave and north aisle were built between 1135 and 1189. The church was enlarged in the fourteenth century. In 1356 Sir William de Wakebridge endowed a chantry chapel in the north aisle and in 1368 he founded the chantry in the south aisle. The Galilee Tomb in the north aisle is generally believed to be his effigy. Sir William sat in Parliament at the time of Edward III. After he lost his wife, his father, three brothers and two sisters in the Black Death, he gave himself to religion.

In the sixteenth century Crich was one of the biggest parishes in the county. It included Tansley until 1840, Wessington until 1859 and Ambergate until 1897.

Crich is set high on the hills to the east of the River Derwent, roughly five miles south-east of Matlock and four miles west of Alfreton. (Map Reference:- SK 3554) The village is aptly named as Crich comes from the old Celtic name for a hill.

A short way from the church is Crich Stand. This memorial was dedicated in 1923 to the 11,409 men of the Sherwood Foresters (Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regiment) who died in The First World War. Later a plaque was added for those who lost their lives in the Second. The Memorial stands 950 feet above sea level. (See page 117)

Nearby also is the Crich Tramway Museum. Working trams run on tracks laid in an old quarry beneath the Stand.

The registers for St. Mary's are at the County Record Office, Matlock. They date from 1565.

The memorials have been copied verbatim including any epitaphs, and have been typed as such except where the symbol / indicates a new line in the typescript. After each inscription there is an indication of the form the memorial takes e.g. Slate Headstone. The symbol _ indicates that the number or letter concerned is either wholly or partially illegible.

INDEXES

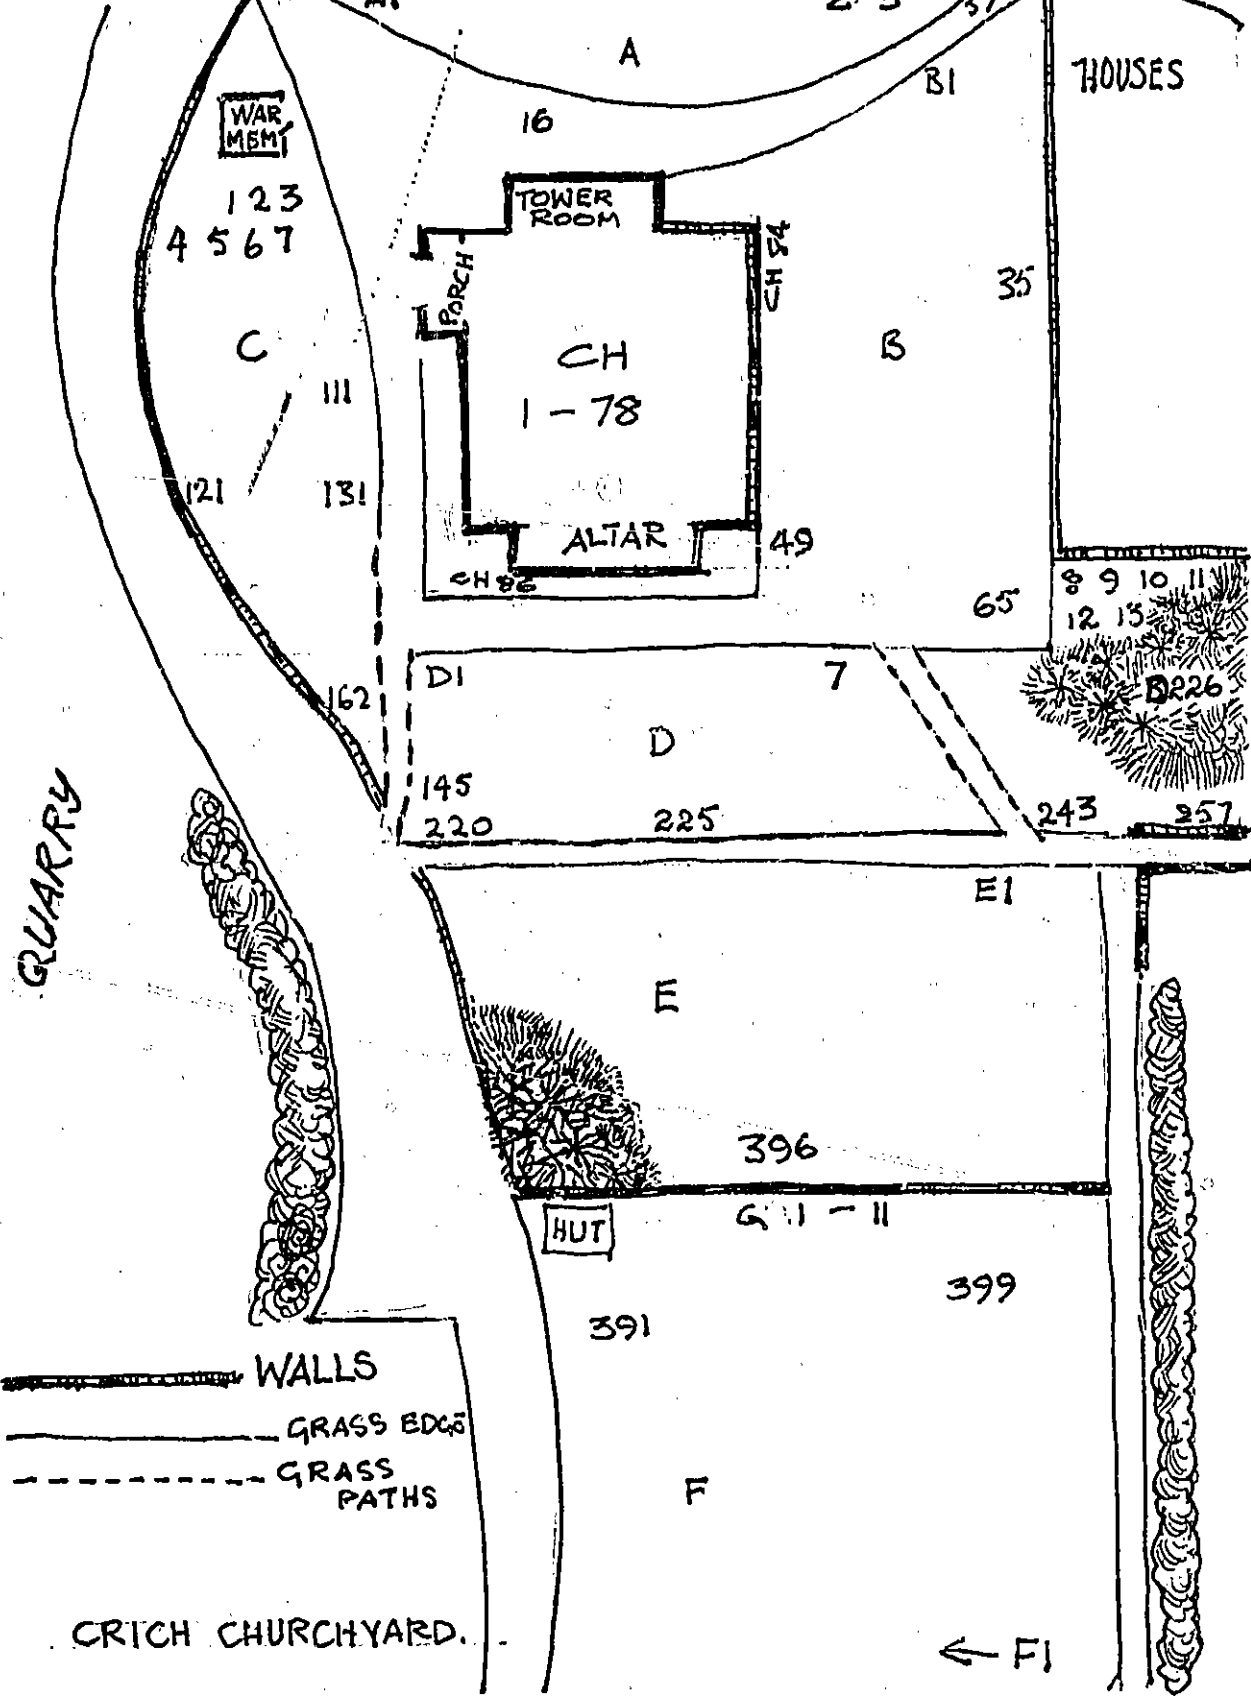

The index of names refers to the reference number designated to each memorial, and all names, villages, houses etc. mentioned on the memorials are also indexed and listed separately.

PEASE NOTE

The following (F) section is the new cemetery, separated from the churchyard by a wall. Access to it is by the road at the side of the church or a gate on the right of the church. All graves are numbered, therefore to avoid confusion these numbers have been used here. The missing numbers indicate no stone but all graves are chronological and where date of death is known in most cases it will be easy to find the right plot.
